05 Questions for a qualified professional

01 Which documents should I organize before our first meeting, and which information is still missing?

02 What are your role, fees and confidentiality arrangements? What information, if any, would be shared and with whom?

03 How would discussion topics and financial disclosure be organized, and when might independent legal advice be helpful?

04 What parenting information and discussion topics should I prepare without assuming a parenting outcome?

05 Which mortgage, title and household-cost documents would help us discuss hypothetical keeping-versus-selling options?

06 Privacy and limits

Save checklist statuses only. Keep actual records offline. Do not enter financial amounts, account numbers, names or private notes. Prepared is self-reported organization, not legal completion. This report is not legal advice, a court filing or a Financial Clarity valuation report.

Nothing is automatically shared with a spouse, attorney, mediator or anyone else. You choose whether to share this download. Store it privately on your device.

Financial tools and the Financial Clarity valuation report remain Coming Soon. Check current official state court resources and consult qualified professionals as appropriate.

Your suggested 30-day preparation plan

An optional organizing schedule, not a legal deadline. Adjust the pace to your circumstances.

Days 1-7: Take stock privately

Locate tax documents and asset and debt statements. Keep source records offline.

Days 8-14: Identify gaps

Work through remaining records, starting with household expense records. Do not guess missing figures.

Days 15-21: Prepare discussion questions

Prepare questions about missing information and disclosure questions and future housing questions. A prepared topic is not a resolved legal decision.

Days 22-30: Review and choose your next step

Update your answers and checklist, regenerate your report, and decide what to discuss with an attorney or mediator. Share only if you choose.

Retirement questions, if applicable

Which plan statements and plan-specific rules should I obtain? Could a QDRO or another specialized order be needed, and who should review it? Not every plan uses a QDRO. No division, tax treatment or eligibility is determined here.

Home equity and keep-versus-sell considerations

No explicitly identified home value, secured debt balance and selling costs were supplied. Home equity and sale proceeds are not calculated.
Gross equity = entered value minus entered secured debt. Net sale estimate also subtracts entered selling costs. These are not your legal share or cash available. Obtain refinance, moving, tax and housing-cost estimates; monthly scenarios do not assume a sale, buyout or split.

Privacy and limits

This released preparation report does not collect financial balances or provide financial valuations.
Educational organization only, not legal, tax or financial advice. No settlement, support, division or court outcome is predicted. Nothing is automatically shared with Adriatic Mediation or any professional.
